About the Assessment Centre

Aisha Al Marri took part in a VIFM Talent Assessment Centre as part of the Senior Manager Cohort Programme - Q2 2026 engagement. This report summarises the results of the assessment.

Assessment Centres consist of a number of different activities and exercises providing participants with a range of opportunities to demonstrate their competence. Participants are observed by trained assessors who collect behavioural evidence related to the relevant competencies.

Exercises Completed

- Strategic In-Basket (In-Basket / E-Tray, 120 minutes)
- Direct Report Role Play (Role Play, 45 minutes)
- Operating Plan Case (Case Study, 90 minutes)
- Board Brief Presentation (Oral Presentation, 30 minutes)
- Behavioural Interview (competency_interview, 60 minutes)

How to Use This Report

For each competency, Aisha Al Marri was rated on a 1 to 5 scale:

- 5 - Significant Strength
- 4 - Strength
- 3 - Competent
- 2 - Development Needed
- 1 - Significant Development Needed

The overall competency rating is not necessarily an average of the scores from the exercises - some activities are rated more heavily than others based on the competency-to-exercise matrix.

This report provides information around the participant's strengths and development areas in relation to skills and behaviours important for the target role. You may regard this report as being particularly relevant for the next 24 months.

OBSERVED STRENGTHS

- + [Behavioural Interview] Took ownership of an ambiguous brief and delivered a clear plan with sequenced milestones.
- + [Case Study] Re-framed the problem to surface the upstream constraint the rest of the room had missed.

SUGGESTED DEVELOPMENT ACTIONS

- Set a 24-hour decision rule on cross-functional questions: gather inputs, decide, then iterate.

Using This Report

What this report is for

This report describes how Aisha Al Marri performed against the competencies assessed at this centre. It is evidence for a decision, not the decision itself: any decision that follows, and its consequences, rests with the client organisation. It should be read alongside other information about the person, never on its own.

How the overall rating was reached

Assessors reached the overall rating by discussing the evidence recorded against each competency and agreeing a view.

What it cannot tell you

An assessment centre samples behaviour in simulated situations over a short period. It cannot account for performance in a real job over time, for circumstances on the day, or for growth since the assessment. Ratings carry measurement error, and small differences between people, or between one competency and another, should not be treated as meaningful.

Technical quality

The behavioural content used at this centre is under expert review: 0 of 372 indicators have been approved by a subject-matter expert so far. Until that review is complete, treat these results as indicative and do not use them as the sole basis for a hiring, promotion or termination decision.

Questions and challenges

Questions about this report, or about how the assessment was run, should go to your VIFM engagement lead. A participant who wishes to query or challenge a result should raise it with that contact, who will explain how the concern will be reviewed and by whom. A concern or an appeal can also be raised from your own assessment portal, under "Questions or concerns". It is recorded with the assessment, answered in writing, and raising one does not change your results.
